BOLD BURGLARS IN BROOKLYN.

An audacious burglary was committed almost under the shadow of the Brocklyn Police Headquarters on Friday night or early Saturday morning. The real-estate office of A. B. Davenport, at No. 367 Pulton-st., was broken into and the safe robbed of a portion of its contents. The office is situated immediately over the Dime Savings Bank, and the building is guarded at night by two watchmen employed by the bank. The burglars entered on the oniside of the building, having male their way from the hall of the next building along the ledge in front of the windows. The safe, which was not of a burglar-proof pattern, was entered by the use of drills and "jimmies," and the tools were left on the floor and were found when the office was opened yesterday morning. The burglars had evidently calculated on the fact that collections were usually made on the first of the mouth, and hoped to secure a large amount of money. But a deposit bad been made at 3 o'clock, and the amount received after that hour was only $200, which was all that was secured by the thieves. Mr. Davenpert is agent for the Willoughby and other large estates, and it was only by accident that the amount received after banking hours was so small as scarcely to reward the efforts of the burglars. A case containing a large amount of bonds and bank and insurance stock was broken open, but the contents were not disturbed, as they might have led to identification. A towel and some clothes left by the men who committed the robbery are the only clews to the perpetrators, besides the tools that were secured by the police. BOLD BURGLARS IN BROOKLYN.

SHOT ACCIDENTALLY BY A FRIEND.

Joseph B. Close, age twenty-eight, of No. 435
West Iwenty-third-st., a salesman in the employment of Malcomson & Co., of Nos. 255 and 257 Canal-st., was taken before Justice Murray, at the Tombs Police Court, for having accidentally shot yesterday John W. Redgrave, age twenty-one, a book-keeper employed in the same store, and living at the corner of Eighth-ave, and One-hundred-and-forty-third-st., while handling a five-chambered revolver. It appeared by the evidence that Close was preparing to go on a Western tour. He took out the revolver and said to Frederick Cox, a shipping clerk, that the barrel did not work easily. While he was examining it the revolver went off, and the bullet struck Redgrave, who was sitting at his desk, under the left shoulder, touching the spinal column and producing paralysis of the lower extremities immediately. Dr. Eli S. Shorter, of No. 382 Broomest, was sent for, and after stanching the wound pronounced the injury a serious one, Redgrave was conscious, and he said that the shooting was accidental. He shook hands with Close, and then he was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital in an ambulance. Justice Murray paroled Close in custody of Mr. Malcomson. SHOT ACCIDENTALLY BY A FRIEND.

MADAME RENE'S CHEESE.

MADAME RENE'S CHEESE.

On the arrival of the Hapsburg at Hoboken recently, there was more than the usual confusion among the passengers. They were harrying to and fro, and all were excited and noisy, except the German performers for the Thalia Theatre. They were calmly seated on their trunks taking matters philosophically, and evidently wondering why everybody was so excited and in such a hurry to do nothing. Madame Kené, a plump blonde, attracted attention because of her perfect quietude. She carried in her hand a handkerchief full of something, which a lynx-eyed Custom House official pounced upon, thinking it apparently a bundle of diamonds. It contained a large and quaint collection of keys of all sizes and shapes, and every moment she was called upon to unlock one of her many trunks or baxes. Of course, it required some time to sort out the right one, and this wrought the official to fever heat. By the manner in which he rummaged hertrunks, rufflingher pretty stage dresses and her temper, it was evident that he was having his revenge. But the actress soon had hers. There was a suspicions-looking basket which she never let get beyond her reach. She placed her pretty foot upon it, partly concealing it with her dress. This was enough for the official. He wanted the box opened. She confusedly said: "Dere is nosing in it, sir!"

the box opened. She confuserly said. Detects nosing in it, sir."

This made the bluff official determined to do his duty at all hazards. The box was burst open in an instant, when the officer quickly stepped back, raised his hand to his forchead and cried, "Hold! Shut it up, quick!"

The excited crowd began to scatter, evidently fearing destruction from an explosive infernal machine. The basket contained limburger cheese of the most pronounced type. Everybody laughed except the incensed official, who immediately attacked another less formidable trunk in another direction.

PALACE CARS FOR CATTLE.

PALACE CARS FOR CATTLE.

An experimental train of twenty "palace stock cars" reached Jersey City at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, bringing 361 head of cattle. The train left Chicago on Wednesday at 7 p. m. making the trip through in fitty-four hours. The usual time consumed by a cattle train between here and Chicago is 100 hours. A Palliman car was attached to the train and carried members of the company owning the cars, railway officials, H. Sabme, Railroad Commissioner of Ohio, and Henry Horn, special agent of the American Humane Association. The suffering and toture of the brutes incident to a long journey in the ordinary stock car were largely done away with during the trip, as the palace cars contain facilities for feeding and watering the stock in transit without removing them from the cars. The cars are divided into four compartments, each capable of holding four or five steers, giving the animals a chance to lie down and rest. The feed-boxes are on the roof, and are connected by a chute with the feeding trough, which run along the side of the car, The troughs are reversible, and when not in use can be turned upsale down to avoid the accumulation of dust and dirt. A water-pipe runs the entire length of the train—the connections being made with adjustable hose—and the animals can all be watered at once.

The gentlemen who accompanied the train said that the cars had answered every purpose expected of them. The cattle, barring a little stiffness from want of exercise, were sound and not bruised or battered when they were driven out of the cars at

A comparison of weights showed that they had lost on an average during the trip twenty-four pounds of flesh, against the estimated average of sixty pounds on cattle brought here by the ordinary method.

ANXIOUS TO BE TAKEN CARE OF.

George T. Sinclair, a lumber dealer in Fiftyeighth-st., who boards at No. 312 East Twentyeighth-st., appeared in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday as complainant against a richly atined woman who claimed to be his wife. He stated that on Thursday night on his return home he had found a crowd assembled in front of his house, while the prisoner was pounding on the door of his apartments, in a vain endeavor to effect an entrance.
The woman stated that some years ago Sinclair was a frequent visitor in Philadelphia, where she owned considerable real estate, and that after an intimacy had existed for some time, he ceased his visits. She then came to New-York and insisted on his marrying her, which he finally did on August 7, 1876. A bolored minister, Robert Wayman, of Bethel Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a colored witness. Now she wished Sinclair to take care of her, and had only attempted to make him do so. Justice Power dismissed the case. ANXIOUS TO BE TAKEN CARE OF.

AN UNSAFE BUILDING IN FIFTH-AVE. AN UNSAFE BUILDING IN FIFTH-AVE.

An examiner of the Buildings Bureau reported yesterday that the building at No. 108 Fifth-ave., occupied in part by Albert Weber, the piano manufacturer, was unsafe and in need of extensive repairs. It was learned that the owner had given notice to the occupants some months ago that he intended to tear down and reconstruct a large part of the building. The Art Studente' League occupied two upper floors until June 1, when the managers of the school were informed that their lease would not be renewed until the proposed alterations were completed. The report of the examiner, it is said, was made at the request of the owner. Buildings at No. 1.254 Fourth-ave, and at Sixty-eighth-st. and the Boulevard were also reported unsafe.

FIGHTING WITH STONES AND BATS.

As a party of about twelve Germans employed in the Lion Brewery were returning from work on Friday night, when opposite a vacant lot on the Boulevard, near One-hundred-and-inith-st., they were attacked by a gang of young ruffians, about thirty in number. Charles Furst, thirty-six years of age, a married man living on the Boulevard, between One-hundred-and-inith-st. and One-hundred-and-tenth-st., was severely beaten with a baseball bat and struck with large stones. He now lies at the point of death at his house. He was beaten first on the body, and when trying to escape he to-ceived a blow on the head with a stone hurled by one of the ball-players, which fractured his skull. He had to be carried to his home by his comrades —the ruffians all running away when they saw Furst fall. Coroner Herrman was informed of the fight, and he immediately proceeded to the injured man's home and took his ante-mortem statement. Furst averred that he and his fellow-workmen were set upon by the gang without the slightest provocation. He said that he could recognize his assailants, and he added that one of the assaulting party drew a pistol. Yesterday Onleers Beck, Donaldson and McCormack took before Coroner Herrman Michael Kennedy, age twenty-three; William Watson, age twenty-six, of Ninth-st. and Sixthave., and Francis Doyle, seventeen years old, of Ninety-ninth-st and Tenth-ave. Coroner Herrman held a preliminary examination in the case. John Nicklaus and Christopher Schwenk, both brewers, of One-hundred-and-tenth-st, and the Bonlevard, identified Kennedy as being of the party of baseball players, and averred that they threw stones. They failed to recognize Doyle and he was placed on the witness stand. He said that he was not acquainted with the ball-players but had entered the game at their request. When the fight took place he did not engage in it. He testified that both parties used missiles.

Kennedy and Watson were committed to the Tombs in default of bail to await the result of Furst's injuri FIGHTING WITH STONES AND BATS.

REMOVAL OF AN OLD LANDMARK.

An old-fashioned two-story frame binding stood on the west side of Sixth-ave, one door above Thirty-ninth-st, for nearly thirty years. It was known as the Leeds Arms. When the New-York Crystal Palace was being constructed it occurred to an Englishman, Jonas Stead, to get a place near by. He bought an old frame-shanty on the Fast Side, hired a lot in Sixth-ave., and had the building moved, in the old-fashioned way, on rollers across town. He placed it on the lot he had hired, which was within a block of the Palace, and called it the Leeds Arms. His enterprise was successful at once, and he could not accommodate the lodgers who called there. He stowed away at least seventy-five people every night in a space hardly large enough for twenty-five, and if the Crystal Palace was not a financial success, the Leeds Arms was, most uninstakably, and Stead accumulated a small fortune. The Leeds Arms was the favorite ledging-place of Yorkshire coachinem and English mechanics generally, and on account of its famous ales and spirits, it also had the patronage of the costest houses of the kind in the city. The ceiling could be touched easily. There was a round table in the bar-room in one solid piece of wood five feet across, and on the walls were steel prints of Lord Nelson, the Duke of Wellington and the Coronation of Queen Victoria. The host, a brother of J. H. Stead, the London comic singer, was always ready for a song, and was as genial a soul as ever lived. Last winter Stead died after a few days' illness, leaving his matters very unsettled. His widow concluded to give up the business. As the building was int for no other purpose, it has just been demolished to make room for a more rentable structure. REMOVAL OF AN OLD LANDMARK.

RECOVERING MR. ABRAHAM'S PROPERTY.

Meyer Abraham, a dealer in ready-made clothing at No. 248 Canai-st., locked up his store about noon on August 29 and went home to dinner. After an absence of an hour, he returned to find that his store had been plundered. Four thieves, who drove up in an express wagon, had gone into the building, unlocked the store door and carried away coats and trousers worth about $1,800. The police of the Thirteenth Precinct learned on the following day that four men had been seen to put some bundles into the small vacant building at No. 244 Division-st. Captain Copeland assigned four policemen to watch the store day and night, but the suspected men did not make their appearance. On Friday the officers asked leave from the house-keeper to search the unoccupied store. They were refused and were told that the place had been let to a stranger for storage purposes. SMALLPOX IN PATERSON.

Nine cases of smallpox were reported to the city health authorities of Paterson. N. J., yesterday, and it is feared that there are a number of other incipient cases which have not been discovered. The authorities attribute all these cases to the negligence of James Kennedy, a smallpox norse, who was engaged sometime age to take care of the patients of the City Hospital, but he got drunk and ran off without being disinfected. His two children caught the disease and one of them died, Kennedy not having called in any medical assistance. A coroner's jury charged him with the killing of this child and he is now in jail awaiting trial. It has been discovered that a woman named McCabe visited the Kennedy family frequently, while there was smallpox there. Her three children are now sick with the disease and three other persons living in the same house are stricken with it. Several other persons also in the house have symptoms of what the physicians declare to be smallpox. All the sick persons and all persons who have in any way come in contact with them have been removed to the city pest-house and the health authorities are on the look-out for more cases. on the look-out for more cases.

FESTIVAL OF THE ARION SOCIETY.

Washington Park, at the East River and Sixtyniath-st., was crowded last night with persons who went to attend the concert and summer-night's festival of the Arion Society. The streets leading from the elevated railways to the park were illuminated with strong calcium lights, and carriages conveyed many persons to the entrance. The park itself was lighted up in the same manner as the streets. In the dancing pavilion every seat was occupied early in the evening. The band platform was hung with red curtains on each side, while at the back stood a huge pointed fan ornamented with figures illustrative of the amusements most loved by the Germans, Gambrious and Orpheus being prominent in the assembly. At 8 o'clock Leibold's military band began to play promenade music, and continued until 9. At that hour a full orchestra appeared, with Dr. Damrosch as conductor. A concert was then given, the programme being as follows: Weber's "Jubel" overture, by the orchestra; Remhold Becker's "Waldmorgen," by the Arion chorus, and the orchestra; air from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," sing by H. The last selection was received by the audience with great enthusiasm.

"EMPTY IS THE CRADLE—BABY'S GONE."
That is because there was no PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER in the house when the dear child was taken with cholera norbus. The baby might have been saved: Don't sacrifice mother child to neglect! There are thousands of families where PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER is always kept in readitional forms of the property of the ness for any sudden emergency. Mr. R. V. Miller, of Syra-cuse, N. Y. says, after twenty years experience with it, he recards it as a medictine which should be kept in every house His recommendation is well worth following

OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

The importance of the nervous system, its power over and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness, is thoroughly recognized; its uses and the danger of overtaxing it, whether through intense mental application or by the excessive induigence of the appetites and propensities, are proper subjects for consideration. When the nervous system is deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly seek advertise from a great who for a long series of years, has deis deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly seek and vice from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time and attention to this study, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to discover at once the cause and as promptly apply the remedy, thus avoiding the pathfully slow seeking for the truth so common to the inexperienced, and so annoying to the patient, who, very naturally, wants to know without delay what is the matter, the protabilities of recuperathe extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recupera-tion, and the time required.

If the brain has become exhausted by intense mental application, depriving it of the power of connected thought, it can only recover its strength by being properly fed and nourished by the use of certain systematic methods. It is precisely the same with the nerves that preside over organic life. The value of this branch of medical practice can scarcely be overrated, for it reaches marriage, the perpetuation of family estates in the same family.

estates in the same family.

From a long and large experience in this direction, I have been able to command by my success the thankful appreciation of some of the first families in the city and Nation, and can communicate much that pertains to the over-exercise of every department of the nervous system and the means of recovering its powers, whether of brain, appetite, propensity
